

HELMET

ABSTRACT

5 A helmet, sized and shaped to receive the head of a
6 wearer, includes a ballistic shield that is pivotally
7 movable between a raised position for spanning and 8 protecting the frontal area of the face of the wearer and a
9 lowered position for spanning and protecting the mandibular
10 area of the face of the wearer. Detent means interacting 11 between the helmet and the shield releasably retain the 12 ballistic shield in the lowered position and in the raised 13 position.